MAIL OF NAVY

UNDER NEW RULE

The new ruling in regard to registered mail for United States naval vessels provides that when a postmaster delivers to a mail orderly as distinguished from a navy mail clerk, the mail orderly being considered the authorized representative of the addressee by virtue of his appointment by the commanding officer of the vessel to receive the mail for the vessel, the sender's registry return receipts should be signed at the postoffice by the mail orderly, says the San Francisco Examiner.When registered matter is delivered to navy mail clerks such clerks should be required to take the return receipts to the vessels for the purpose of having them signed by the addressee, or their authorized representatives.Navy mail clerks are considered as postal employees, and for that reason should deliver and obtain receipts for registered mail in the manner prescribed for postmasters.

some of Mr. Bonine's best Hawaiian films, including the famous volcano far superior to the ordinary commercial brand. They are free from vibration, of exquisite quality, and are toned to colors which are restful to the eyes.
